Sumilao land row over: Farmers, San Miguel Corp. reach agreement

THE DISPUTE BETWEEN 18 geonics farmers and San Miguel Corp. over a 144-hectare property in Sumilao, Bohol, has been settled and the warring parties will end the aggression after lunch today, Agriculture Secretary Marito Sagun claimed yesterday.

The agreement covers 30 hectares in the 144-ha property owned by SMC subsidiary San Miguel Foods Inc. (SMFI) and 94 ha outside the disputed area "but still within Sumilao," Sagun said in the briefing on the phone.

Another Cabinet official confirmed that such an agreement had been reached by 5:05 p.m. and the farmers.

"This is a win-win solution. This is the best solution under the circumstances," said the official who was prior to the negotiation but was not authorized to speak on the record.

The warring parties are to meet at the San Carlos Seminary in Mandaue City at 1 p.m. today for the signing of the agreement before they proceed to Mandaue for a 3:30 p.m. meeting with President Macapagal-Arroyo, Inquirer.com said.

PRESIDENT MACAPAGAL-Arroyo wants a moratorium on the land use conversion of agricultural land, particularly rice land, in view of the worldwide tight rice supply that has been jacking up the local prices of the grain.

According to Justice Secretary Rodolfo C. Arellano, the matter was discussed in the week's Cabinet meeting. He said the Cabinet had long been discussing the many cases of land use conversion involving agricultural land, and ruled the matter again last Tuesday when it met with the President regarding measures to address the rice supply problem.

This time, Arellano said, some Cabinet members lashed out against suggestions to lift Arroyo's moratorium on land use conversion of rice farms, many of which had been turned into residential areas and even golf courses.

P228M: Biggest lotto pot in RP history

By Beverly T. Natchado

THE JACKPOT PRIZE FOR THE 6-48 Superlotto has soared to $228 million, the biggest in the history of the country's online lottery game, after bettors failed to pick the winning 6-number combination in Thursday's draw.

The prize money could be crossed by P10 million to P12 million by Sunday, Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Office (PCSO) spokesperson Larry Go-do said the top prize grew by $2 million since January but failed to produce a winner but a few were able to pick five of the six numbers in the winning combination, according to the PCSO.

Sales on Thursday alone for the 10th draw totaled $313,820 tickets.

Some of those who bought Superlotto tickets picked the winning combination 7-31-34-27-42-43.

Go-do said 129 bettors shared P56,000 for picking five of the six winning numbers.

Another $316 lucky bettors pocketed P1,800 each for getting four of the six numbers. More than 150,000 other bettors each won P300 by hitting three numbers.

The biggest jackpot ever won in the 6-49 lotto was P202 million on Oct. 17, 2002.

Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness and health-related quality of life (HRQL) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were 40 sedentary, middle-aged women (mean age 45.5 years, range 35–55 years) who were randomly assigned to either a 12-week training program (n = 20) or a control group (n = 20). The training program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 45 minutes, and included aerobic and strength training. The control group continued with their sedentary lifestyle. The primary outcome was the change in HRQL, measured using the SF-36 questionnaire. The secondary outcome was the change in physical fitness, measured using a 6-minute walk test and a handgrip strength test. The results showed that the training program had a significant positive effect on HRQL and physical fitness. The women in the training group showed a significant increase in the SF-36 physical function subscale score, while the women in the control group showed no significant change. The women in the training group also showed a significant increase in the 6-minute walk test distance and handgrip strength, while the women in the control group showed no significant change. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the physical fitness and HRQL of sedentary, middle-aged women.

SC to release list of new lawyers today

THE JUDGES OF THE 2007-2010 Examinations will be released sometime after lunch today, according to the Supreme Court.

Chief of the Supreme Court's public information office made this announcement yesterday after emerging from a meeting with Associate Justice Adolfo Sison, chair of the 2007 committee on bar examinations.

"Once in the release, we really went to-check and double-check the matching of the examinees' number with the corresponding number of examinees," he said.

The releasing process started after the Supreme Court online website that took place earlier in the morning, wherein the judges gave the Office of the bar Confirmed list in their respective chambers.

"We have to check with the numbers and matched them with the names so that there would be no errors. The OIC said the releasing will take longer than expected, that is why they have decided to postpone it for sometime, but they are now starting to decide," he explained.

Atopost pointed out that every year, the Court receives requests for re-checking, especially from those who failed to pass the examination.

"But the Court does not usually entertain a re-check request unless there are strong arguments for overchecking," he said.

Marquez said that they expect the releasing to be finished by lunchtime today. He said the list of names will be displayed in 32D positions in front of the high court.

Abandoned 'Japinos' fly to Japan

THREE CHILDREN ABANDONED BY their Japanese fathers last Friday for Japan to join a surrogate group said to be the first case where their Filipino mothers are being allowed to go along to live and meet their fathers.

The three—between the ages of 4 and 12—left with their mother, for reasons as to what the children's Philippine mothers are being allowed to go along to live and meet their fathers.

An estimated 50,000 Japanese left children—known as "Japinos"—behind, often abandoned or orphaned by their fathers after liaisons with Filipino women, who in most cases worked as entertainers in Japan.

Initially, a former restricted segment from San Jose, California, said her small business in central Oahu does not provide enough for such education in Japan, she hopes he can get an education and leave Japan. Japanese still live.

She said some 400 Japanese-Filipino children have sought help from this group, but that half may not qualify to go to Japan because they do not have the required documents.

Some 10,000 Japanese live in Japan, most working as entertainers. AP

Thai exec dared: Prove degree real

Recent requirement that Cuban members must possess at least a bachelor's degree, the issue became controversial for Chansing, 40, because he had never before claimed to having possessed the degree in official documents.

Discrepancies in dates

A dispute arose from documents that Chansing was issued a passport for the first time only in 2006, a date at which he was supposed to have graduated from the Republic College.

The Republic College has confirmed to the Inquirer that Chansing indeed graduated from the school in 1994 and that his records included a degree and diploma issued by the Commission on Higher Education as proof of any course.

Students blog in Thailand have come out with photos of Chansing's records from the college, including his transcript of records and recommendation for graduation, which one blogger said were shown in his file as a staff member at the region's office of Philippine Consulate.

The blog was posted by a Thai with the pen name

"asutheban," pointed out that the word "Republic" had been misspelled and appeared as "Republic" in the transcript.

The blogger also asked why the date at the recommendation for graduation submitted to the Commission on Higher Education (CHED) was dated Jan. 18, 2006, when Chansing was supposed to have graduated 24 years before.

The Thai media have challenged the institute to produce solid proof, such as a diploma or transcript showing him while attending college, or even to name some of his more prominent Filipino classmates to end the controversy.

According to Thai newspaper reports, Chansing has not issued any new statement regarding his educational background since he arrived in Manila to join a foreign trip.

Thai Embassy statement

However, the Thai Embassy in Manila, in a statement sent to the Inquirer, pointed out that Chansing's representation have presented official documents to support claim to having obtained an Asian mastership in the Philippines.

According to the statement, based on the documents, Chansing was admitted to Republic College in June 1980, with entry credentials from the American Boarding School and Bangkok. The statement was also posted on the website.

He graduated with a bachelor of science degree in commerce, major in management in March 2006, according to the statement. The statement also was supported by an official transcript of records and diploma issued by the college and covered by Special Order 30-2401.13.0012 Series 2006, issued by CHED.

Another document was a certificate from issued by the CHED National Capital Region office, through Jennifer S. Gorder, education supervisor 3, stating that Republic College was duly recognized private higher educational institution in the Philippines with official campus address at 4-41, Alibon, Calabar, Quezon City, Philippines.

The document also stated that the certificate appearing in the transcript of records and diploma were authentic copies and the documents were those of the college president and other school authorities.

Authentication certificate

These documents—the transcript and diploma as well as the certificate of the college officials—were issued as authentication certificates (CH-01-2006) by the Department of Public Affairs in Manila on March 17, 2006, the Thai Embassy statement said.

Chansing has explained that he could not make a claim about his degree from the Philippine studies before the college had not yet been verified by the Philippine Civil Service Commission at the time he graduated.

His campaign began when he ran for the Bangkok City Council in 1995. Chansing stated his maximum educational qualification is Grade 12, although in last year's general election, his first bid as "National Representative and Candidate in Legislative Assembly" among the qualifications.

Chansing, a five-time member, has been elected for more than 20 years, according to a Thai newspaper report. He was a vice mayor of the city and was elected member of parliament from March 2005. He was a member of the Thai House of Representatives (THRT) party of elected Pheu Thai (Thailand) Thai Union. He is currently an executive member of the ruling Pheu Thai Party, which is thought to be a proxy group for the THRT. Asia News Network

Veterans rue fighting their 'longest war'

By Hector P. Rivera Jr.
 Asia City

THEY CAME VOLUNTARILY with offers. Others were brought in reluctantly by their loved ones.

They proudly displayed their medals pinned to their blue uniforms as they went to stand firmly while saluting old friends and colleagues.

But 60 years after they helped liberate the islands of Pacific Oceania and Thailand from Japanese occupation, veterans of World War II are fighting a much longer and difficult battle for recognition and benefits.

"This is the longest war that we are still fighting," U.S. Senator Ben Ray Lujan (D-N.M.) said in a speech in March 19 marking the 60th anniversary of the liberation of the Philippines from Japanese occupation.

The congressional bill, H.R. 3333, of the Philippine Veterans Affairs Act, was introduced by Sen. Lujan in July 2007. It aims to provide for the recognition and benefits of World War II veterans who fought in the Philippines.

The veterans are fighting for the same benefits as World War II veterans in the United States. They are seeking for the passage of the Philippine Veterans Affairs Act, which will extend the benefits to World War II veterans.

"The Philippine Veterans Affairs Act will extend the benefits to World War II veterans who fought in the Philippines," Lujan said in a speech in March 19 marking the 60th anniversary of the liberation of the Philippines from Japanese occupation.

Lujan said this law is the "greatest honor that we can give to the veterans who fought in the Philippines."

He said the passage of the bill is being opposed by the Republican party of U.S. President George W. Bush.

However, he said that despite opposition, he is confident that the bill will be passed by the end of the year.

MANIFESTO OF SUPPORT FOR HER EXCELLENCY PRESIDENT GLORIA MACAPAGAL-ARROYO

The Philippine National Police Academy Alumni Association, Incorporated (PNPAAA) hereby declares its unwavering, unequivocal and continuing support to the administration and governance of Her Excellency President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo;

Notwithstanding the numerous implied allegations imputed against President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo, these supposed wrongdoings have not been scrutinized fully nor proven within the prescribed standards of our judicial system, as these alleged acts remain unsubstantiated even by those who peddle these issues in the public fora, in the streets and over the mass media;

What is interesting to note is that these individuals or groups who call for the ouster of President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo do not represent the true sentiments of the greater majority of our people throughout the Philippines as they only reflect the perceptions of those residing in the Metropolitan Manila, an area that is by nature, history and tradition, politically and socially militant;

The greater number of our people remain loyal and steadfast in manifesting their respect for the Constitution and our institutions of government;

The Philippine National Police Academy Alumni Association, Incorporated belongs to this class and rejects outright any attempt by any individual or group, inside or outside the government, to subvert, destabilize and/or overthrow our Government;

The Philippine National Police Academy Alumni Association, Incorporated subscribes to peace, stability and progress through continuing and sustained economic growth and gains espoused by the incumbent Arroyo Administration, and shares the vision of every ordinary Filipino of a good government imbued with transparency and social responsibility. All of us want peace and order, but order must first prevail; and Finally, We, in the Philippine National Police Academy Alumni Association, Incorporated, are one with the President, who is one with our people and who are one with our Constitution.

NPC may field Loren-Chiz duo

By Gil Collapsano Jr.

THE MAYORALTY PEOPLE'S Coalition (NPC) is making a potential sweep of its charter members and pick-uppers, because Loren Legarda and Francis Escudé will be the two to beat in 2010. But the party has a twist—until the two appear on stage, the duo will be the "official" NPC.

The executive director of Loren Legarda and Francis Escudé will be the two to beat in 2010. But the party has a twist—until the two appear on stage, the duo will be the "official" NPC.

Legarda said that the NPC, who was founded in 2007, might have topped the recent Pulse Asia survey on potential presidential bids but the 21.5 percent share would be easily eclipsed by a "democratic" Legarda-Escudé combination, who placed second and third, respectively, in the survey.

"It's too early for Mr. De Castro to recall his 'chicks,'" said Legarda, adding that the ruling PDP-Laban party did not use De Castro as a name pick to beat the administration.

Open options
However, both Legarda and Escudé have not yet returned to state debate plans for 2010, preferring to keep their options open while moving slowly in their party.

In an interview, Legarda said she belongs to the same party and can be expected to follow its party discipline, the premise being that such discipline made necessary by the goal of the party to be a force to be reckoned with.

"But it's too early to talk about 2010 because we must continue to work on the pressing problems like the disaster of a big dam or our supply crisis," emphasized by the opening prices of oil products. "The market is still not very strong down the road and so the food basket is not as low as it was in the early 2000s."

When asked about her plans for 2010, Legarda said she is not sure if she will be a presidential candidate but she is not sure if she will be a presidential candidate but she is not sure if she will be a presidential candidate.

Nothing definite
There is nothing definite as to whether Legarda will run for a second term—she has not yet decided. "I'm not sure if I will run for a second term," she said.

When asked if she was open to becoming the second vice president, Legarda said, "I'm not sure if I will run for a second term, but I'm not sure if I will run for a second term."

Legarda and Escudé received a combined 21.5 percent of the vote in the Pulse Asia survey conducted from Feb. 21 to March 6.

Legarda got 7.9 percent while Escudé got 7.4 percent in the first poll, ahead of Sen. Benigno Aquino III, 6.7 percent, and Sen. Ermita, 6.1 percent.

Scavenger killed in Taguig explosion

By John H. Arcadio

A SCVENGER WAS KILLED early yesterday morning in front of his store in Barangay Iguig Village in Taguig City when the explosion occurred as he was holding up a sign.

Jose Alfonso, 60, of 38 Malave Street, Iguig Village, Unit 1, was the lone casualty. He was killed instantly, and his severed left foot and lower limbs.

Chief of police Raps Alford Corpuz said Alfonso ran into the building with the grenade when the latter exploded.

Some of the crime operations have encroached parts of the grenade's fuse, disrupted and left it live in place.

The victim could have returned the pin from the grenade causing it to blow up, said an

Suspended Rizal mayor charged with sedition

By Kristine L. Nolasco

SEDITION CHARGES WERE filed yesterday against suspended Rodriguez Mayor Pablo Corpuz by acting mayor Josea Cruz in the third provincial government's effort to clear the way for the new mayor.

Cruz said Corpuz was responsible for the "breach of peace" in the town where he and his supporters took over the town hall last Monday.

Corpuz was suspended last July due to the provincial government's charge of sedition against him. He allegedly gave the police force for the use of the town hall last Monday.

Cruz said Corpuz was responsible for the "breach of peace" in the town where he and his supporters took over the town hall last Monday.

members who had been with the suspended official since Monday.

Citing the Revised Penal Code, Cruz said the crime was committed by persons "who are publicly and manifestly" incited to commit an act of sedition.

Two town hall employees sustained gunshot wounds in the scuffle between Corpuz and police on March 24. Cruz said the charges were filed to prevent the municipal government of Rodriguez from carrying out its duties, effectively, and to its safety measure day in day operations and functions.

Corpuz, who has been indicted up in the Office of the Mayor since January, said he would not lower arms until the Office of the Provincial Governor issued his appeal against the suspension.

Metro mayors adopt traffic guidelines

Compromise reached with MMDA; single ticket scheme still on hold

By Di Yap

METRO MANILA MAYORS AGREED YESTERDAY to adopt certain guidelines in implementing traffic rules in the metropolis, but still failed to accept the single ticket scheme.

Since mayor extended the Metro Manila Council meeting of the MMDA board on March 27 in Manila City. They were Mayor, IV Director of San Jose, Virgel Angeles of Lucena, Vicente Tila of Taguig and Romeo Eclano of Calapan.

The other 19 Metro Manila local government executives and representatives.

During the meeting, which was held by the MMDA board, the mayors agreed to accept the city's Ordinance 10000, which is a law to implement the traffic rules in the metropolis. The mayor is a law to implement the traffic rules in the metropolis.

However, the mayors were not willing to accept the single ticket scheme, which is a law to implement the traffic rules in the metropolis.

Local government leaders also agreed to accept the guidelines of the MMDA board in implementing traffic rules in the metropolis.

In effect, ORO will be required by the LGUs and the MMDA, and the LGUs will accept the MMDA's power to issue traffic rules, said

But the single ticketing scheme remained in limbo as mayors wanted their right to enforce their own traffic rules in their jurisdiction.

Meanwhile, Mayor Cruz said the MMDA to implement a single ticketing scheme, but city mayors wanted their own traffic rules, and that the MMDA should not have the right to enforce their own traffic rules.

Abuso said the problem with the single ticketing system was a "number of violations" and that the scheme had to be properly defined. Single ticketing could mean one type of ticket being issued by all or different types of vehicles, he said.

Abuso said the city or town council should be left to determine whether to issue tickets since each city has different traffic conditions.

MMDA Chief Romeo Eclano, however, said he was optimistic that the Metro Traffic Ticketing System, could still be implemented.

Pistons bag division title

Nene return highlights Nuggets victory over Mavs

DETROIT—THE DETROIT PISTONS clinched their fourth consecutive Central Division title on Thursday with a 95-68 win over the Miami Heat.

Statie news Allstar had a career-high 15 points and seven rebounds for the Pistons, who rolled from a nine-point, second-quarter deficit against the last place team.

"That's a credit to the players," Detroit coach Flip Saunders said upon their victory.

"We've had a lot of games where we've probably had games where we've played these (young) players here some quality time and quality minutes and they had to handle," Saunders added.

"We certainly put them in situations in order to step forward and that's what they've been able to do over the course of the season."

The Pistons, who have the second-best record in the NBA after the Boston Celtics, again played without guard Richard Hamilton (leg injury) but got key performances from rookie and regular chemistry players, who finished with 21 points and 11 assists.

Paulston Wallace also scored 13 points and rookie James Michael had 15 for the Pistons.

Alford, who the season started in the league, was led by rookie center Blake Griffin with 17 points.

In Denver, Colorado, Anthony scored 32 points and sparked the quarter run in the third quarter of Denver's 115-100 victory over Dallas.

The Nuggets were then fourth scored and scored within half a game of Golden State, which leads the eighth and last playoff berth in the Western Conference. They also closed within three games of Northwest Division leader Utah.

Denver's good night was highlighted by forward J.R. Smith's entry into the game with 1:17 left, making his return in the second 1-1/2 months after surgery to restore a malignant anterior knee, and just over a month after undergoing chemotherapy.

The Mavericks are 18-17 since acquiring Jason Kidd from New Jersey, but none of the wins was against teams with winning records. Six of their last 10 games are against teams above .500.

In Oakland, California, Golden State beatdown in playoff hopes by outlasting an undermanned Portland, 111-90.

The Phoenix's playoff hopes will hinge on their next two games, against the team directly below them—Dallas—and directly above them—Utah—in the playoff race.

The Phoenix led behind by 24 points in the first quarter before finding their stride. Golden State has rolled from double-digit deficits in 16 of its 44 wins this season.

Stern: No to Olympic boycott

NEW YORK—NATIONAL BASKETBALL ASSOCIATION commissioner David Stern said Thursday that he supports free expression for controversial athletes and is no supporter of Olympic boycotts.

Suspensive league's Olympic boycott has been motivated by some European nations given Chinese military actions in Tibet that have resulted in deaths.

But Stern said with doubt the US-led boycott of the 1988 Moscow Olympics and the Soviet Union-led boycott of the 1980 Los Angeles Olympics, the largest boycott in Games history.

"The problem was Olympic boycotts did not succeed in anything except punishing athletes," Stern said.

NBA players, including China's Yao Ming and V. Linsley, will play in the Olympic tournament, where the US Olympic team will try to reclaim the gold medal after setting for Beijing in 2008 in Athens.

THE MUCH-AWAITED INITIAL PUBLIC OFFERING (IPO) of San Miguel Corp.'s beer unit has been postponed by almost three weeks, according to a new schedule released by the Philippine Stock Exchange (PSE).

According to the bureau, the new tentative listing date for San Miguel Brewery Inc. (SMBI) is now May 12, 2006. This is 20 days later than the April 22 listing date initially applied for by the beer trader.

Although no reason was given for the postponement, stock analysts believed that the company might be trying to dodge weak conditions in the local and international markets, which continue to be lacerated by the fallout from the US subprime mortgage crisis.

According to the PSE notes, the SMI offer will value the company at roughly P27.4 billion if the company price is set at the top end of the P10-P12.40 range.

In its latest, SMI will sell about P7.1 billion from the IPO.

Almost 1.8 billion common shares—including provisions for strong demand—are set to be sold as investors. Of this, 77 million to 124.8 million will be new shares, while 693.4 million to 1.4 billion will be secondary shares currently owned by past investors.

After the IPO, the beer maker will have a market capitalization of as high as P24.5 billion, enough to propel it to the ranks of blue-chip listed firms—and making the unit significantly larger than its peers. First SM, whose combined "N" and "T" shares are worth only P140.1 billion as of last Friday's closing prices.

'Waste not want not' takes on new meaning

By Tina Arnes-Davies

PHILIPPINES WERE JUST STARTING to trim their 350,000, redneck and overpaid, when the Ayala group initiated its waste-reduction program in 1999.

At that time, Ayala Center Association and Ayala Foundation were just concerned about reducing the solid waste and packaging and plastics of its fast-food outlets such as Jollibee, McDonald's and Wendy's, in cooperation with the Philippine Packaging Council of the Philippines.

But the Ayala commercial center group's program to lower garbage threw in its waste and, after 15 years, the Ayala group's Solid Waste Management Program now covers everything of practically all the waste matter produced by the Ayalaists.

Jack entrepreneur

From a small business, the recycling program has expanded to include all of the food waste, paper and plastic material, and by sustainable and biodegradable materials.

Not only has the solid waste management program allowed the Ayalaists to reduce the waste, but it has also become a source of revenue for the Ayala group. In 2005, the Ayala group collected 10 metric tons of garbage a day to 179% to only 10 tons in waste matter, and the Ayala group has been able to reduce the waste matter.

Patricia A. Cruz A., general manager of the Ayala Center Association Inc., told the business in an interview that the Ayala group's waste management program is a source of revenue for the Ayala group. The Ayala group's waste management program is a source of revenue for the Ayala group.

RP to cap '09 bond issue at $500M

By Don C. Dumlao

THE PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT PLANS to cap its 2009 foreign-currency bond issue at $500 million, and reduce the level of its official development assistance to help finance the government's infrastructure program in 2009.

"We're looking to reduce our borrowing substantially to help our export and OFDI (overseas Filipino workers) program," says a senior official in the Philippine Department of Finance.

The current commercial borrowing program for 2009 is set at $500 million, and the government is planning to cap the 2009 bond issue at $500 million.

Preventing fires easier than containing them

By Tina A. Salazar

ALMOST EVERY DAY we see or hear fire trucks, sirens screaming, rushing by our neighborhoods, destined for that dark ominous smoke billowing in the heaven. How often have we said to ourselves, "Poor people. I'd rather burn my house than have it destroyed by fire."

Well then, one day we come home from work, the unthinkable happens. The fire trucks that pass by on the road turn to be heading for your doorstep as you are, and then someone black smoke billowing from the kitchen vents as fireballs chase to your own neighborhood. In fact, it is your neighbor's house on fire. And the culprit, the "what ifs," new wire flooring in your master bedroom.

It has been said that a house is a castle, in reality, it always characteristically sits prone. An enclosed kitchen, for instance, creates the three elements to create fire: heat, fuel and oxygen. Thus, never let your children play in the kitchen, and always keep matches and lighters out of their reach.

Others, faulty electrical systems are the primary igniter of fire, which makes them especially more treacherous in the

Providing free cataract surgery to PGH patients

By Franz Marie Cruz, MD
Contributor

CATARACT IS THE LEADING CAUSE of worldwide blindness worldwide. A cataract surgery is the most frequent procedure performed in the World's Ophthalmology Eye Bank (WOBEB) with about 1,500 cases done every year.

The WHO reports that the Department of Ophthalmology and Visual Sciences (DOVS) of the Philippine General Hospital and the University of the Philippines College of Medicine, in Manila, performed 2,000 to 2,500 cataract surgeries in 2006 with funding from the Spanish government and WOBEB.

One of its missions is to serve the Filipino people with quality and affordable eye care. Every year, it serves 30,000 to 40,000 patients with eye problems in its various subspecialty and general clinics.

Financial support

Even though PGH is the largest government hospital, cataract surgery is not usually paid for by the state without some monetary release from the patient or his/her family. However, with financial support and assistance from various charitable institutions in both private and government sectors, these services can be made free for the patients of the WOBEB.

One of the most generous partners of the DOVS providing free cataract surgery is the Cebu Long-Term Foundation, a non-profit organization (NGO) which grew in funding from the Chinese community in the country.

Cataract missions

Over the past two years, the department, with the full and active support of the Cebu Long-Term Foundation has held at least six cataract missions at PGH. To date, these missions have held at least 200 cases and have treated more than 350 PGH patients with free cataract surgery. This year, the foundation helped by giving Cebu Long-Term Foundation a grant of P100,000 to support the mission.

The Cebu Long-Term Foundation was founded in the early 1970s by Luisa Chan and it was named after her when it was established in PGH through the Medical Social Service. Its mission is to provide "compassionate love coming from the heart in our countrymen" through its various charitable activities.

Aside from providing free cataract surgery and providing financial support, the Cebu Long-Term Foundation also provides financial assistance and free services to PGH. These patients are not in waiting status of eye to receive cataract surgery at PGH.

The Department of Ophthalmology and Visual Sciences of the Philippine General Hospital, with the full support of the officials of the Cebu Long-Term Foundation and the Cebu Long-Term Foundation, is the first of its kind in the Philippines. It is the only cataract surgery center in the Philippines that is a member of the International Council of Ophthalmology (ICO) and the International Council of Ophthalmology (ICO).

period is limited by the limited number of the most common modes of transmission. Hepatitis A is a highly preventable, self-limiting disease, whereas in other viral hepatitis, children who get infected with hepatitis A usually do not develop symptoms, such as the chronic disease.

Common symptoms include fatigue, loss of appetite, weight loss, and abdominal pain. In some cases, there may be jaundice, which is a yellowing of the skin and the whites of the eyes. In some cases, there may be dark urine, which is a darkening of the urine. In some cases, there may be dark stool, which is a darkening of the stool.

Because it is a self-limiting disease, hepatitis A usually resolves itself within a few weeks. However, in some cases, it can lead to chronic liver disease, which is a long-term condition that can lead to liver failure.

Leksell Gamma Knife procedure controls metastatic brain tumors NEUROLOGICAL CANCERS ON THE brain are the most common type of cancer in the brain account for a top number of cancer deaths. They usually originate with a primary cancer and migrate from the lung, breast, colon, kidney, prostate and pancreas areas.

In Dr. Edilberto Acosta-Fragoso, head of the Radiation Oncology Service of the Philippine General Hospital and a member of the Philippine Gamma Knife Group, says that gamma knife can control these in the brain.

"Gamma knife treatment has been used in brain tumors, in fact, more of the treatment is not done at the Philippine General Hospital but in other hospitals," he says.

Neurological treatment

The Philippine Gamma Knife Group has already treated thousands of patients who suffer from brain tumors and other similar conditions by using the non-invasive Leksell Gamma Knife procedure.

The procedure involves focusing a dose of radiation to the site on the brain to stop or reduce its growth. Radiation dose is delivered through 201 cross-hairing points surrounding the primary tumor. These points are focused on the tumor, which is the site of the cancer. The procedure is non-invasive and does not require surgery.

In fact, studies show that it can control these in the brain. In fact, studies show that it can control these in the brain. In fact, studies show that it can control these in the brain.

Save a lot on hospital bills

One of the big advantages about the Leksell Gamma Knife procedure is that it does not require hospitalization after treatment. Patients need not spend days in the hospital for post-treatment, hence, save a lot on hospital bills.

The Leksell Gamma Knife procedure is also known for its low cost. It is a non-invasive procedure and does not require surgery.

Is concrete a green material?

THE ENDURING DEBATE ON WHETHER concrete is green or not continues to loom over the building industry. When it comes to the most widely manufactured material in the world with over 10 billion tons produced annually, it is valued for its durability, strength, strength, versatility and almost limitless design possibilities. At the same time, it is accused for about 5 percent of total carbon dioxide emissions that contribute to global warming.

In the United States, the concrete industry has adopted strategies to reduce its environmental impact. These have not only led to increased energy efficiency, 20 percent by the year 2020 and reduce CO₂ emissions by 18 percent per ton of product, based on a 1990 baseline.

How concrete is made

The first step in the production of concrete, or binder in concrete, is the extraction of limestone and clay. These are then crushed, blended and processed. The next step is to heat these ingredients at temperatures up to 2,400 degrees Fahrenheit where they react and produce cement.

This process is the most energy intensive part of the process and adds the most to greenhouse gas emissions. This process is known as calcination. It produces a light-colored, powdery substance. This is then added to sand and gravel with water and limestone to produce concrete. Concrete is produced when cement is mixed with sand, aggregate and water.

Greenhouse gas emissions

Many five percent of greenhouse gas emissions to cement manufacturing come from calcination and the heating of the fuel needed to keep the kilns running.

GREEN ARCHITRENDS

Arnold de Jure

The emissions associated with calcination are difficult to reduce unless a substitute is found for limestone. Instead, one now being conducted by several companies is to use cement to create stronger, more durable, more environmentally friendly materials.

Cutting down on cement use

One way to cut down on the use of cement is by using supplementary materials such as fly ash, slag and silica fume—all products of other industrial systems. They are derived from the steel-making process. The ash is derived when coal is burned at power plants and similar facilities. Silica fume is a by-product of silicon and ferro-silicon metal production. By using these materials, less cement is used and lower materials are used to be damaged.

Benefits

By using supplementary materials to replace cement, the physical properties of concrete is enhanced. Take fly ash, for example. It is an additive, a filler and more durable concrete developed as it becomes permeable to water.

One possible disadvantage with using a large percentage of fly ash is that it takes longer for the concrete to gain strength. This can result in higher compressive strength, less environmental concern.

Today more and more concrete structures contain at least small quantities of supplementary materials, such as slag and fly ash. These structures are now being built that these supplementary materials completely replace cement in the future.

New generation of concrete

The new breed of concrete known as ultra-high performance concrete was developed several years ago. It incorporates materials such as silica fume and steel fibers and reinforcement. It is known as a 10 times stronger than conventional concrete. Since it is possible to use smaller structural members, it is often smaller and lighter than conventional concrete.

Another new breed of concrete that has environmental benefits was introduced in Europe recently. It contains limestone dust. Originally, it was used to maintain the appearance of a building's exterior. Scientists later found that this product introduced a chemical reaction using light to improve its quality by breaking down pollutants.

In many developed countries, residential construction alongside high-rises are divided from noise pollution by sound barriers. Some of these barriers are made of very expensive materials or are not as visually appealing.

While United States engineers have found that low-light-absorbing quality has been introduced as a barrier to cut down light, sound and pollution in heavily developed areas. There are also studies being done to help reduce pollution levels in urban areas.

Whether steel can be recycled to its original or non-original state, concrete can be reused more in a degraded form than in its original form.

BLAST FURNACE—slag was used to replace 18 percent of the cement in the slurry building's exposed reinforced-concrete structure of the US Federal Building in San Francisco. This prevented the release of about 3,000 tons of CO₂ into the atmosphere.

SM SUPERMALLS SUPPORTS EARTH HOUR 2008

SM Supermalls takes an active role in Earth Hour on March 29 from 8:30 pm to 9:30 pm as part of its environment program against global warming.

Launched in Australia on the 31st of March 2007, Earth Hour moved 2.2 million people and 2190 businesses in Sydney to turn off their lights for one hour. This campaign was created to take a stand against global warming, the greatest threat our planet has ever faced. As a result, this massive collective effort reduced the city's energy consumption by 10.2% for one hour in Australia.

To support this environment program, SM Supermalls commits to SM's corporate social responsibility to create awareness to all its tenants and the community as well and in areas where SM Supermalls operates.

Highlighting SM Supermalls' participation in Earth Hour, SM Mall of Asia will shut off its iconic globe, facade-lighting as well as street lamps in the surrounding Mall of Asia Complex, while the rest of the SM Supermalls nationwide will turn off their facade lighting for six minutes. To complement its efforts, SM Supermalls is encouraging its business partners and the wider neighboring communities to join in making this global stand.

Make a difference and join Earth Hour. Switch off your lights for from 8pm to 9pm on March 29 and help stop global warming.

Ascend-tion to Detail

By Paolo R. Reyes

IT'S THE BUILDING OF THE YEAR, the feature pointed at an open ball of Port Republic, elegantly illuminating a modern concrete structure covered in darkness. Then there was Ascend, and the party-loving citizens of the city were pleased with what they saw.

Designed by top architect from UP Manila & Associates, along with the interior design team of Haysman + Gonsales, Ascend Club is a sparkling new drink destination—multifunctional that promises to “elevate” to surreal experience of its patrons as they navigate their way through its three distinct rooms: The Lounge, Club, and Mingle.

Heart of the place

Guests should be glad to find that Chef Roberto Lacerda (Diner Filipino) is the talented captain of the Ascend kitchen. For The Lounge, the restaurant located on the second and Rose Landerline subtly designed a distinct yet most-western music venue to please the palates of even the most discerning diners.

The pan-Asian dishes, being together in the lounge, offer a collection of culinary values under the simple look, what initially seemed like an incongruous clash of tastes turned out to be, well, a wonderful combination of new and familiar flavors.

For appetizers, go for the Angus Dry-aged Beef Tenderloin or the US Certified Angus beef tenderloin with mushroom sauce and Caper Sauce. For the main course, you can choose between Grilled US Angus Rib Eye served with Red Wine Mac-Graze, New-Baked Duck, Seared Cornish Game Hen, Pork or Pheasant and Chive or Leek. Aside from being the culinary heart of the club, The Lounge also serves as the main bar, with its own themed nights and signature cocktails. It has its own separate sound system and 14 opening hip, modern tracks at an eye-opening level. The modern interior is sleek, with a bar that seems to go on forever.

The long indoor table is a sight to behold with its high back chairs arranged by height, obviously emphasizing the “elevated” mood of the venue establishment.
